This Week

Paragraphs of the Week

Alton Hadley Jr., 10, of West Summer was instantly killed by lightning late Wednesday afternoon during a severe electrical storm which swept over Maine.

It was reported Tuesday that President Roosevelt proposes to issue a proclamation fixing the date for Thanksgiving a week earlier this year. Governor Barrows says the later date will still stand in Maine.

Thomas H. Sherman, 96, who was an eye witness to the assassination of Abraham Lincoln and for 20 years was secretary of James G. Blaine, died Monday in Attleboro, Mass.

Governor Barrows will enter a potato picking match against Governor C. A. Bottolfsen of Idaho, Sept. 22, at the Eastern Idaho State Fair.

Fire destroyed the two story mill, three storehouses, an office building and several piles of lumber of the Kempton Lumber Co. in Rangeley early Sunday morning. Loss was estimated between $50,000 and $60,000.

Two plane crashes last week took lives of 11 service men. One army plane crashed and burned at Langley Field, Va., Army air base, killing two commissioned officers and seven enlisted men. The other, a navy plane, crashed near San Diego, Calif., killing two fliers.

Hope of finding Alex Loeb, 32, and Dick Decker, 23, New York fliers, who took off from St. Peters, N. S., Friday for Ireland, has been abandoned.

Twenty-four persons were killed and 114 injured or badly shaken up Saturday, the result of a wreck, when the streamlined train, "City of San Francisco," was hurled into a rocky canyon near Carlin, Nev. The accident was caused by a rail, which is said to have been misplaced deliberately.

JACKSON FAMILY REUNION TO BE HELD SUNDAY

The annual reunion of the descendants of Lemuel and Jemima Jackson will be held on August 20 at the home of Gertrude and Henry Stone on Stearns Hill, West Paris. The usual outdoor picnic will be held. All attending should bring cups and spoons for coffee.

Lemuel Jackson of Middleborough, Mass., married Jemima Sampson of Plympton, Mass., and as early as 1784 we find his name prominent among the early settlers of what is now known as the Town of Paris, and it is believed that Mr. Jackson came to Paris as early as 1780 and made preparations for settlement here. In August 1781 the Jacksons (Lemuel and family) were here and had a camp where "Moses Marshall and wife stopped on their way from Bethel which the Indians had raided upon, to Hebron." In 1793 we find the first town meeting of the Town of Paris being held with Lemuel Jackson a second selectman, and in October of the same year the second town meeting was held at his house and at which he acted as Moderator. In 1795-1797 we find his name as first Selectman.

We note in the year 1798 that according to the assessed valuation the buildings of Mr. Jackson were valued at $350 and there were but two individuals in the town having property more highly appraised at that time. In that year Lemuel Jackson Jr. "hid off the taxes and was chosen Collector and Constable," he apparently already having started to follow in the footsteps of his father and take an active part in town affairs.

The date of Jemima Jackson's death is apparently unknown, but by his first marriage Mr. Jackson had five children as below listed: Patience who married Deacon John Willis, Isaac who married Submit Scott, Lemuel Jr. who married Susan Hammond, Levi who married Sardine Pratt, and John who married and lived in the Western States.

In 1803 he married Susanna Cole of Buckfield, and of this union there

VRICEL—CHAPMAN

(The Bangor News)
Miss Sally Emily Chapman and Henry James Viricel of South Brewer were married Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Theresa's church in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The Rev. John Sullivan performed the ceremony.

The altar was decorated with cut flowers. The church organist, Mrs. Fred Wood, played the traditional wedding marches and Mrs. Irene Dwyer sang "O, Promise Me," "O Salutaris" and "Salve Regina."

The bride was gowned in white net over satin with a long train and a finger tip veil. She carried a prayer book with streamers caught with sweet peas and valley lilies.

Miss Elizabeth M. Viricel, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and wore pink taffeta with net and blue accessories, and carried pink sweet peas and blue bachelor buttons.

James R. Viricel, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Louis N. Viricel and Austin P. Willett.

The bride's mother wore yellow crepe with white accessories and a corsage of orchid sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother wore aqua lace with white accessories and her corsage was pink sweet peas.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to about 30 relatives and intimate friends at the Penobscot Exchange, preceded by a reception. Mrs. Emily Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Viricel assisted in receiving. Cut flowers were used in decorating. Miss Josephine A. Viricel had charge of the guest book and Miss Arlyne Viricel presided over the gift table.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Emily S. Chapman of Boothbay, and the late Alonzo F. Chapman, was graduated from Gould Academy, Bethel, class of 1933, and from the Maine School of Commerce, Bangor, in 1935, and has been employed with Caldwell Sweet Company, wholesale druggists. She is affiliated with the Epsilon Tau Epsilon sorority, Maine School of Commerce.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Viricel, 28 Century Street, South Brewer, was graduated from Brewer High School, class of 1930, and is employed at the Eastern Corporation.

The young couple left by motor on a wedding trip, destination unannounced, and will be at home after Aug. 28, at 12 Grove Street, South Brewer.

OLD FASHIONED CONCERT

Flickering candles cast their light on an old time occasion Tuesday night at Middle Intervale. The ancient church was crowded to the porch with an eager audience who had come to attend the Old Folks' Concert. Miss Rebecca Carter and Mrs. Helen Champlain sponsored the program, stimulated interest and acted as hostesses for the evening.

Guest musicians from Berlin, N. H., Bryant Pond and among summer visitors contributed their talent and with local singers made a delightful program. The performers and many in the audience wore costumes of a bygone day. Mrs. Harry Lyon played the reed organ for the assembly singing of old favorites and rounds. Harold Green led. The famous baritone of Royal Dadmun was heard in the congregation.

The singing of Stephen Foster's old songs by Margaret Carter Bean was a happy feature. The cello solos by Phil Chase of Berlin were heartily applauded. Bethel's favorite women's quartet, made up of Mrs. P. O. Brinck, Mrs. H. A. Lyon, Mrs. A. Dudley and Mrs. A. Taylor delighted with two appearances in old songs.

Every number on a full program was well done and enjoyable. The children taking part deserve special mention. Prizes were given for the best costumes and Mrs. R. R. Tibbets, Mrs. Emma Van and Hermin Mason acted as judges. Miss Beatrice Hathaway and Bryant Bean received first prizes, Mrs. H. A. Lyon and Harold Green were awarded honorable mention. Mrs. A. Dudley and Mrs. A. Taylor received honorable mention for costumes of the gay nineties. Many people hope for another old fashioned concert in the historic old church. The program follows:

UNION CHAPEL TO CELEBRATE 25TH YEAR

Dr. Henry Crane, 1914 Student Pastor, to Speak and Meet West Bethel Friends Sunday

Union Chapel, West Bethel, will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its Church organization Sunday, August 20. The speaker will be Dr. Henry Hitt Crane, distinguished minister of Detroit, Mich., and pastor of the Church at the time of organization.

West Bethel was Dr. Crane's first pastorate. At that time he was a student in the Boston University School of Theology and served as summer minister in West Bethel. The church building had been constructed in 1896, largely through the generosity of A. S. Bean, but no church organization had been set up. Dr. Crane led in this work, writing the constitution and by-laws under which the Church still operates.

Dr. Crane is now pastor of one of the largest churches in Detroit and is generally recognized as one of the outstanding ministers of the country. Recalling his days in West Bethel, Dr. Crane says, "I not only had to preach, but I had to play janitor and choir and usher and bell-ringer as well."

Dr. Crane will preach at Union Chapel Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service. Following the service, Dr. Crane and his family will be guests of honor at a picnic in picnic dinner at the home of Adrian Grover. All members and friends of the church are invited.

BRYANT POND AND BETHEL TIE IN SEVEN INNING GAME

The Rumford Pirates couldn't play Sunday and "Doc" Hood didn't want to disappoint the Bethel fans too much so he got a pick-up team from Bryant Pond to fill in. The game, which didn't begin on time dragged so long that it had to be called because of rain in the seventh with a tie score of 10-10. The game was poorly played and there were a lot of arguments.

Bryant Pond opened the game with five runs on three hits, two of them doubles. Bethel came back with three runs in their half. The score held about even all through the game.

Bethel was out hit 11-4 but Chase was wild and his catcher couldn't hold him so they managed to push across the runs.

"THEY TELL ME"

People like change (I don't mean money) and it is about the only thing they can be sure of. It would be an awful thing to folks in New England to have it June all the time, or January either, and it may seem good to some people to know that the days now are an hour and a half shorter than they were. But we expected it would be that way. But one thing surprised me the first of the week and I don't know why it should. The papers said the President is fixing to have Thanksgiving early this year. Ever since he started in he has done things different and until lately he has got by with most everything. Some people seemed to like it all and the rest couldn't do much about it. But now that some of his ideas don't take so good he started off on a new tack. And we have got to admire his originality. Anyway it will take our mind off some of the things that are a lot more important. And if everybody could only give some of the important things a rest they would get better sooner than they will with too much strong medicine.

THE WATCHMAN ON THE JOB

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

DEVELOPING PICTURES

Making an enlargement. Snapshooters who develop and print their own pictures can obtain interesting special effects, and derive more pleasure from their camera hobby.

MOST snapshooters have their films developed by a photofinisher. For the beginner, this is probably the safest method, as the finisher's work is swift and usually the quality is excellent.

However, as the camera hobbyist gains in skill, he soon wants to develop his own pictures and make his own prints. Such experience is just as valuable as it is fascinating, for it teaches many things about producing better pictures.

One does not need a special darkroom for developing film or making prints. A table in the bathroom at night provides adequate "working space," and the window can easily be covered with cardboard to exclude stray light.

Simple kits contain the few preparations for solutions and trays needed for either negatives or prints. Film of the "chrome" type may be developed under a red photographic safelight, so that one can watch the pictures as they "come up" during development. For "pan" film, it is best to use an inexpensive film tank. Once the film is placed in the tank, the regular room lights can be turned on. The tank method eliminates guess work with any kind of film but some think the "tray" or darkroom method is more interesting.

Only a few minutes are required to develop and "fix" a roll of film. It is then washed and dried, after which prints may be made at once. Making prints is even easier than developing film, since brighter light can be used.

After you have learned how to make "contact" size prints, you are ready to begin making enlargements. With a home enlarger, you can make your pictures in various sizes—change the composition of a picture by "masking"—and obtain special effects by double-printing, diffusion, and other devices that increase a picture's interest and charm.

Developing and printing your own pictures is a sure way to derive more pleasure from your hobby. Make up your mind to try it as you increase in picture-taking skill.

Greek Letters on Brick

Near Two Centuries Old

In one of the museums of Rome there is preserved a "brick" which was discovered on the island of Sicily some years ago. This is a very interesting brick, however, for it is more than 1,700 years old and was made out of soft clay by brick-makers who lived during the time of the old Roman empire, relates a correspondent in the Boston Herald.

It is interesting for another reason, though, and that is for the curious letters scratched upon its surface. These were placed there with a sharp stick by some schoolboys who passed the brickyard at the time when this particular brick, with many others, was still soft and drying in the sun. The letters are in Greek.

The top line was made by a child who was still learning to make capitals and he practiced by making the letter S (Greek Sigma) 10 times. Then beneath these, he wrote 10 times the letter K (Greek Kappa). Then he wrote at the end of the first line the Greek word XELONA, meaning turtle, and at the end of the second line the words MYLA (mill) and KADOS (turtle). Then an older boy, who could write more than mere capitals, pushed the little chap to one side and wrote two lines just beneath the first two, and he wrote a tongue-twister, which reads: "Nai neal nea naia neal temon, hos neoi ha naus," or in English, "Boys cut new planks for a new ship that the ship might float."

This old brick shows that boys played pranks 1,700 years ago as they do now; and it shows also that the Greek language and an educational system had spread throughout this most southerly part of Italy long before it had come to other Europeans.

Exploration of Alaska

Credited to Sea Otter

The sea otter, his silky, soft, dense pelt the most valuable known to commerce, was responsible for the exploration and early development of that part of the North American continent now known as Alaska. For on the throne of Russia sat a pretty, capricious lady who would and must have sea otter skins, as she found them most becoming. Her Imperial Majesty Catherine II, empress of Russia, said "bring me furs," and furs were brought, not only to Catherine the Great, and her court, but to the markets of Asia, recalls a writer in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. During the closing years of the Eighteenth century and the opening decade of the Nineteenth, it is estimated that from 8,000 to 10,000 sea otter skins were taken to Asia each year from the southern waters of Alaska.

It was Peter the Great and his empress, Catherine I, who first took real interest in discovering more about the great land, vaguely reported to lie to the eastward. Under their command, Vitus Bering, Danish captain in the Russian service, in 1728 discovered and named St. Lawrence island, sailed through Bering strait, and rounded East cape. Thus Bering strait was on the world's map 15 years before the first white man gazed upon the Rocky mountains. On a second voyage of exploration, Bering, in 1741, made the actual discovery of mainland Alaska, landing near Prince William sound. Bering died in the new country he had discovered, and after months of suffering and privation some of his men returned home bearing the first of those history-making sea otter skins, which they sold for nearly $30,000. As this news spread among the fur hunters of Siberia it caused an excitement second only to the frantic rush for gold that more than a century and a half later was to draw thousands to the mines of the Klondike.

Entering Strange Caves

None but the bravest people care to enter strange caves. They may get hopelessly lost, drop into a pit, slide over a dangerous precipice, or drown in a rushing, hidden river. Land caves usually occur in limestone, a porous rock, notes a writer in the Washington Post. Rain trickles into cracks, "eats" away part of the lime, and eventually carves out huge underground holes. Tiny raindrops made Kentucky's famed Mammoth cave this way. It sprawls 2,000 square miles under the earth's surface.

Grant of Patents Began With Greeks Years Ago

The grant of patents for inventions began long before the Christian era, Frank E. Barrows of New York says in a symposium of the American Chemical Society on American Patent Practice and Procedure.

"The earliest patent system of which we have authentic record was in the Greek province of Sybaris and related to inventions of new foods," it is pointed out. "Sybaris was destroyed in 510 B. C., and with it the record of its experience with a patent system, but the Greek historian Phylarchus, writing in the Third century B. C., tells us about the provisions of the system. It provided that any cook or caterer who invented an unusual and peculiar dish was entitled to a monopoly of this new invention for a period of one year.

"Only the inventor was entitled to the profit to be derived from its manufacture during this period, and the purpose was not only to protect and reward the inventor but to encourage others to labor at excelling in that field. Thus we have in the Sybaris patent law of 25 centuries ago the fundamentals of our modern patent systems.

"For practical purposes the earliest of our modern systems is that of Great Britain, established by the English Statute of Monopolies in 1623, more than three centuries ago. Our own patent system is next in point of time. It was established in 1790, shortly after the adoption of the Federal Constitution.

"Even before that time patents had been granted by some of the American colonies. The adoption of patent systems has spread and practically all nations have patent systems."

George III of Great Britain had a family of 15 children, including 9 sons and 6 daughters. The sons were George, who became George IV; Frederick, duke of York; William, duke of Clarence, who became William IV; Edward, duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria; Ernest, duke of Cumberland, afterwards king of Hanover; Augustus, duke of Sussex; Adolphus, duke of Cambridge; Octavius and Alfred, who died in infancy. The daughters were: Charlotte, who married the king of Wurtemberg; Augusta; Elizabeth, who married the Landgrave of Hesse-Homburg; Mary, who married the duke of Gloucester; Sophia, Amelia.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

CAN YOU READ LATIN?

THE law used to recognize the doctrine of Caveat emptor. That is Latin. It means "let the buyer beware." The doctrine for which it stood was simply this: Whenever you bought from another it was your responsibility to see that you got your money's worth, not his.

If he were a dishonest man and wanted to cheat you, you had to protect yourself. The law wouldn't help. "Let the buyer beware," Charles Roth it said. Caveat emptor.

That doctrine, as unsound doctrines always must, has given way to a better one. The modern business man, if he expects to remain in business and warrant your patronage year after year, doesn't expect you to protect yourself.

He assumes the obligation of protecting you. He makes sure that his quality is high. He religiously subjects his product to tests. He introduces improvements. And he establishes a price which is the minimum on which he can remain in business.

For this change, which is one of the most important improvements in business, advertising has been largely responsible. Advertising has given a permanent quality to business.

Major George C. Coe is on active duty in Plattsburg, N. Y., with the First Army Maneuvers in which National Guard, Regular Army, and Reserve Units from New York, New Jersey, and the New England States will participate during the next two weeks. The peace time First Army concentration of troops in this country is the largest since the Civil War troops disbanded. There are 53,000 officers and men, about 30 planes and some 240 guns. The combined force of these troops in practice war covers 460 square miles in the Adirondack region west of Lake Champlain in New York state. Major Coe is one of the staff of 350 umpires, who will judge the outcome of the Nation's greatest peace time war maneuvers. Mrs. Coe accompanied him to New York and drove the car back arriving home late Saturday.

ness. A man who advertises must be scrupulous in his integrity. He cannot write lies. He has to live up to all claims. This means that you, as a customer, can buy from such a man with absolute confidence.

Not long ago Owen D. Young, one of America's clearest thinkers and a great business executive, declared that:

"Dishonesty in various forms is becoming rarer in business. Whenever it occurs it is exploited in newspapers, because it is the unusual, not the common, thing.

"A store keeper may short-measure or short-weight his customer and make a little. He may even induce a clerk to short-measure or short-weight. But he cannot build a big business on that basis. Honesty and uprightness must exist in great business organizations."

And it must also exist in smaller business organizations, which expect to grow large.

Whenever a business man advertises, it is a sign that he wants to operate an honest business, one from which you can buy with confidence and trust.

Advertising is thus the guiding light which you can follow in getting more for your money.

Daily it leads millions of American customers to better values, to greater satisfaction, to the serenity which comes from dealing with men and organizations they know they can trust.

TRANSACTIONS TAX
DISCUSSED

"What About the Transactions Tax?" was the subject of "Just Talks" by A. G. S. in a recent issue of the Lewiston Journal. As this subject is of great interest to many of our readers it is presented here in part, by request:

"It seems as tho they would never finish talking in the Senate of the U. S. about the social security plan. Everybody complains about it; nobody seems to have any solution of its inadequacies and various elements of unfairness.

"More and more, as we see it, the opinion of the Congress turns toward the transactions tax of the Townsend act as a solution of the problem of payment of the old-age pension. Many things may happen. Perhaps $200 a month to all persons over 65 may be too large a sum. Perhaps various inequities as between sovereign States may be levelled out. But one thing is certain. Some way must be devised, far better than taxing pay-rolls of workers to provide for old age pensions in some year not yet determined beyond recall, and on the basis of setting up a purely fictitious surplus, which is being consumed for the innumerable other purposes of Federal Government, where this Nation is spending $2 for every dollar of revenue.

"The Townsend Plan is the only one that has had the courage to specify HOW the proposed pension shall be paid. All others simply propose additions to pensions, the amounts of such additions rising to perhaps 400 millions a year to be taken from a treasury that now carries a public debt approaching 50 BILLIONS of dollars.

"There is at least one thing about the transactions tax that is worth thinking about—and we do not wish to be considered as supporting it until we know more about it. It does NOT tax the PAY-ENVELOPE. And we are approaching a 9 per cent tax on pay-rolls.

"One of the strongest and ablest supporters of the Townsend Plan in the Senate is Mr. Downey of California.

"He says that in transactions, defined as pay-rolls, insurance premiums, banking transactions, sales of securities, we have in the U. S. about 360 BILLIONS of transactions annually. A tax of 2 per cent would yield $7,200,000,000 a year. That amount would yield $50 to $60 a month to all persons over 60 years of age. Or rather to all persons retired from gainful employment. As national income increases, from its present level of about 60 billions a year to a hundred billions or more, the pensions from such 2 per cent on transactions would warrant paying pensions up to $100 a month and perhaps to the $200 a month or $2,400 a year.

"And Mr. Downey adds: 'While I have said that the 2 per cent transactions tax, or an equivalent tax, would, in my opinion, yield about $7,200,000,000, I do not want this body to understand that it would be that much of a burden upon our economy in addition to the present burdens. I believe that under this plan we could and should do away with the $1,000,000,000, $2,000,000,000, or $3,000,000,000 that we are annually spending, by way of an expanding debt, upon the W. P. A. We could do away with an immense amount of relief, poorhouses, and insane asylums. We could do away with the billion or billion and a half dollars that the present law is going to raise; and I feel confident that the net amount which would be raised by the proposed tax would not be in excess of two or three or four billion dollars more than we are now raising. . . .

"For some reason we have a blind spot in this opulent land. I say we must change our social conception. Let the children support their parents, but let it be done by law. Let the younger generation support the retired worker and regard him as a retired partner who has built this Nation for the rest of us.

"Mr. President, if we in the Senate wish to do one great act, we have the power to lift millions upon millions of despairing elderly people out of the depths of degradation, humiliation, and poverty which most of us would rather die than descend to.

"Mr. President, the Social Security Act is born of a lack of vision. It springs from poverty. It never strikes above the eaves of the poorhouse. It is unfair to the workers in the contributory system. It will produce from them a political repercussion which in my opinion will be unequalled when once they realize what it is. At its best, it gives to our older people only enough to exist in misery and degradation. . . .

"We would impress on our readers the notion, that in this presentation of material from Congressional records, we merely seek to present a side of the case which we feel has not been properly presented in general.

"The Transactions Tax case leading up to the revenue of funds sufficient to care for the Aged and Non-productive citizens, should be studied, not with prejudice but with sympathy. Small make-shift amendments to the Social Security and additions of as small amounts as $2.50 a month to the Federal grants to States now staggering along under increasing burdens on the State, are being presented.

"They are piffle. The issue is enormous. Are old-age pensions to be adopted. YES? or NO? If 'yes' then in the impoverished and extravagant raiding of the Treasury must stop; and we must have some system (no matter how arduous or sacrificial it may be) business must pay. But not pay WHOLLY from the pay-envelope as in the impossible Social Security."

JACKSON REUNION

was one daughter, Abigail, no record of her marriage being available.

Of this family of six children none but Lemuel Jr. settled permanently in Paris, and it is principally this branch of the family who hold the Jackson Family Reunion mentioned above.

Lemuel Jr. settled on lot 14 on the northern slope to Paris Hill and built what is now known as the Arabella Carter homestead. We find that he was one who though perhaps not taking as active part in affairs of the Town of Paris as did his father, yet all through the pages of the history of years we find his name frequently mentioned. Susan Jackson died May 25, 1792, and as second wife Lemuel Jackson Jr. married Tammy Tucker of New Gloucester, having by his first wife five children and by his second wife two.

This was the background of the Jackson family of Paris, Maine, a God fearing and respected people, whose members number into the hundreds and may be found in many states.

Among the present day members of the family, few persons of her acquaintance have forgotten the ready wit and tender heart of Kate Jackson Hammond of Paris Hill. Her ability for bringing smiles to all was most unlimited and her heart was warm for all. She was very interested in the family reunion and as long as health permitted, never failed to contribute liberally of her musical talent for the pleasure of those who attended.
